The High King's Tomb Dargaud
 An indispensable introductory textbook that provides students with a genuinely comparative study of the different trajectories and experiences of independent African states. Paul Nugent explores a range of key concerns including the impact of HIV and AIDS, the contagion of warfare, and efforts at achieving national reconciliation both in the past and today. This is an ideal core text for modules on Modern African History, African Politics or Africa since Independence - or a supplementary text for broader modules on African History - which may be offered at the upper levels of an undergraduate History, Politics or African Studies degree. In addition it is a crucial resource for students who may be studying modern African history for the first time as part of a taught postgraduate degree in African History, African Politics or African Studies. New to this Edition: - Revised and updated throughout in light of the latest research - Reflects recent developments on issues such as AIDS, urbanization, the secession of South Sudan, questions of citizenship and the importance of transnational spaces - This second edition now features photographs

The chilling tome that launched an entire genre of books about the often gruesome but always tragic ways people have died in our national parks, this updated edition of the classic includes calamities in Yellowstone from the past sixteen years, including the infamous grizzly bear attacks in the summer of 2011 as well as a fatal hot springs accident in 2000. In these accounts, written with sensitivity as cautionary tales about what to do and what not to do in one of our wildest national parks, Whittlesey recounts deaths ranging from tragedy to folly—from being caught in a freak avalanche to the goring of a photographer who just got a little too close to a bison. Armchair travelers and park visitors alike will be fascinated by this important book detailing the dangers awaiting in our first national park.

Cancer is one of the leading killers in the world and the incidence is increasing, but most cancer patients and cancer survivors suffer much from the disease and its conventional treatments' side effects. In the past, clinical data showed that some complementary and alternative medicine (CAM) possessed anticancer abilities, but some clinicians and scientists have queried about the scientific validity of CAM due to the lack of scientific evidence. There is great demand in the knowledge gap to explore the scientific and evidence-based knowledge of CAM in the anticancer field. With this aim, a book series is needed to structurally deliver the knowledge to readers. Throughout the past few years, the cancer chemopreventive potencies and treatment effects of a number of natural dietary agents present in different food sources have been evaluated by various experiments. Some of them have progressed to early clinical trials. This volume is a specialized book presenting the research evidence relevant to the use of specific diet therapy in cancer chemoprevention and treatment. We begin with lessons learned from dietary resveratrol as an effective agent with anticancer properties against malignancies, followed examples of flavonoids from fruits and vegetables in the prevention and treatment of cancer. Evidence for the beneficial influence of diet enriched with flax seed oil and green tea on cancer will be reviewed. Soy food intake may enhance the effects on anticancer treatment for breast cancer, whereas lycopene-rich foods may possess chemopreventive efficacy. There are also discussions on the contribution of the cancer preventive effects of the antioxidant-rich foods and Mediterranean diet. In addition, the modulation of proteasome pathways by nutraceuticals is highlighted. Finally, we close the book with a discussion on the attenuation of cell survival signaling by bioactive phytochemicals in the prevention and therapy cancer.

Les moulins du Pô : on les compte probablement sur les doigts d'une main, et chaque année leur nombre diminue. Pour les découvrir, il faut aller tout exprès à leur recherche, si l'on ne se déplace pas en barque sur le fleuve. Ils se font très rares, au milieu de l'étendue molle et puissante du fleuve sinueux, cachés tantôt par un coude, tantôt par une butée d'argile, ailleurs par un lambeau de marécage boisé, ou nichés dans les détours du chemin côtier. Austères et frustes, ils illustrent, par leur aspect décadent, une disposition du génie civil italien qui a marqué leur destin de derniers survivants à la concurrence de l'industrie minotière moderne : les moulins flottants continueront de fonctionner jusqu'à extinction" Ecrit dans les années quarante, Le moulin du Pô est, sans aucun doute, l'oeuvre la plus importante et la plus connue de Riccardo Bacchelli.

L'auteur raconte la saga d'une famille de meuniers, vivant près du Pô : une véritable fresque retraçant un siècle d'histoire italienne (1812 -1918), les gens, la vie. Le roman se déploie en trois grandes parties : Dieu te garde, La misère vient en bateau, Monde vieux, toujours nouveau. De la retraite de Napoléon en Russie à la Première guerre mondiale, trois générations de meuniers, celle des Scacerni, participent activement à la vie sociale de leur pays. Le moulin du Pô constitue une vraie épopée des "humbles", et il est considéré comme une des oeuvres les plus éminentes de la littérature italienne."
