This is the seminal novel of a young man's education as a member of an elite, paternalistic non-military organization of leaders dedicated to preserving human civilization, the Solar Patrol, a provocative parallel to Heinlein's famous later novel, Starship Troopers (which is about the military). Only the best and brightest--the strongest and the most courageous--ever manage to become Space Cadets, at the Space Academy. They are in training to be come part of the elite guard of the solar system, accepting missions others fear, taking risks no others dare, and upholding the peace of the solar system for the benefit of all. But before Matt Dodson can earn his rightful place in the ranks, his mettle is to be tested in the most severe and extraordinary ways--ways that change him forever, from the midwestern American boy into a man of the Solar Patrol. Good Omens meets The Long Way to a Small, Angry Planet in Ryka Aoki's Light From Uncommon Stars, a defiantly joyful adventure set in California's San Gabriel Valley, with cursed violins, Faustian bargains, and queer alien courtship over fresh-made donuts. She has already delivered six. When Katrina Nguyen, a young transgender runaway, catches Shizuka's ear with her wild talent, Shizuka can almost feel the curse lifting. She's found her final candidate. But in a donut shop off a bustling highway in the San Gabriel Valley, Shizuka meets Lan Tran, retired starship captain, interstellar refugee, and mother of four. Shizuka doesn't have time for crushes or coffee dates, what with her very soul on the line, but Lan's kind smile and eyes like stars might just redefine a soul's worth. And maybe something as small as a warm donut is powerful enough to break a curse as vast as the California coastline. As the lives of these three women become entangled by chance and fate, a story of magic, identity, curses, and hope begins, and a family worth crossing the universe for is found. A gunslinger. A cult that can use telekinesis. A journey across space for answers-there ain't an ork or elf in the galaxy that this cowboy can't wrangle. Harlen knew he was meant for more than bounty hunting on a dusty desert planet-especially since he had escaped from a crazy cult tower on Earth-2 when he was younger. Can't forget that in a hurry. But on Caria, the hot ginger barmaid ain't bad to look at. Life is fine for Harlen. He gets paid, he drinks. He doesn't need to go anywhere. That was until a girl from his past shows up, and she's glowed up. Savannah was always cute before, but now she's got white hair and eyes, as befit the order. She's also gotten more adept at using her powers. Turns out, there are only so many orks you can bar-room brawl with before you've got to do it on a galactic scale. And besides, Harlen needs to find out the origins of the mysterious pendant given to him by his dead parents. It's not like it won't be connected to his grand quest of saving his dusty sand-covered home, right? Warning, this novel contains: A petite brat of an elf princess that's going to learn her place. Wrestling for dominance with a seven ft half-ork babe. A silver-haired cultist hottie that loves to watch-and join in, when he lets her. A caring older barmaid tending to his wounds. And also: A Wild West planet, with rocket shuttles for trains. A giant forest planet, with trees as big as skyscrapers. A space battle (just one sorry). Dual laser pistols, and an MC who knows how to wield them. A mysterious pendant of unknown origin. Battling monsters together as a team. And lots of other stuff not as important as a harem of beautiful women, each possessing individual goals, personalities, and backstories-the only thing they share is him.
